Quote unquote

Stopping the third wave is in public's hands. A sizeable population is already infected or getting vaccinated and health systems are being upgraded. We need people's support, but I don't expect a wave in September or October.

Supply is one issue but more importantly, we have to protect parents first. In children as it is, severe disease and fatalities are uncommon. So, we have to ensure that parents are safe first and children automatically become less vulnerable. We have to go with proper priorities. We can't add 44 crore numbers to already existing 90 crore adults. So, within children, we will also prioritise (those with co-morbidities) and by first quarter of 2022, we should have vaccines for all children.

3 hours/week: China enforces online gaming ban on kids

WIRED CURFEW!

Times NIE brings forth a follow-up of a story carried on July 12, 2021 wherein, China had decided to introduce 'midnight patrolling and restricted game hours' for kids to ensure that they don't fall behind academically during Covid. On Sept 1st, the Chinese govt enforced the harsh measures, including 3 hours a week of gaming time for kids. While parents and students in India felt our govt should not imitate such a move, which affects privacy, we ask experts this time their views....

Earlier this month a state-affiliated newspaper had criticised the gaming industry for inducing addiction in teenagers, terming online games "spiritual opium". In July this year, Chinese tech giant Tencent rolled out a facial recognition "midnight patrol" function to root out children masquerading as adults to get around a government curfew on underage gamers.

TIME FOR INDIA TO FOLLOW SUIT? EXPERTS REACT

- India should also put restrictions on online gaming. Habits are changing with changing times, screen times are increasing and the ubiquitous mobile phone is replacing real friendship. The play stations have replaced real physical games. The use of these unbridled screens, which are the source of entertainment, especially among children can unleash the Frankenstein that can stunt future generations.
Smita Ghosh, counsellor
- India needs more strict laws, as post corona the screen time has crossed 7-8 hours from 2-3 hours. Games activate the same centres in the brain as addiction to drugs. Self-regulation has collapsed, so it is time the government monitors it just like China.
Dr. Prashant Bhimani, senior psychologist
- It's time for stringent rules, as children are at home, and their energies are not getting channelised in the right direction. Gaming

- Minors in China can only play games between 8 pm and 9 pm on Fridays, weekends and on public holidays starting Sept 1, according to a notice from the National Press and Publication Administration
- This limits gaming to three hours a week for most weeks of the year, down from a previous restriction set in 2019 that allowed minors play games for an hour and a half per day and three hours on public holidays
- Gamers are required to use their ID cards when registering to play online, to ensure minors don't lie about their age leads to increased aggression and changes in human behaviour. Due to online games, children are losing social touch. Moreover, in the long run, gaming also affects their concentration levels in studies and their eyesight. The recent Maharashtra case in which a child spent ₹10 lakhs on PUBG and committed suicide, is a glaring example of the devastating effects of online gaming.

Akshaya Kulkarni, counsellor, Zebar School, Ahmedabad

Rather than banning, the government should regulate the exposure to video games. There should be stringent laws on online games, especially for children. Aggressive and violent games should be monitored strictly by the government, as despite laws, children manage to have access to games, which are not meant for them.
Harshika Ramasubramanian, Counselling Psychologist and Expressive Arts Facilitator

SCHOOLS CAUTIOUSLY REOPEN

AFTER 18 MONTHS, KIDS SEE REAL CLASSROOMS

With trepidation and some excitement too, thousands of students returned to their classrooms to face a new Covid reality of masks and socially-distanced camaraderie as schools in several states reopened on Wednesday. Fifty per cent attendance, no shared tiffin or even stationery, staggered lunch hours and parental consent were some of the dos and don'ts for schools in several parts of the country, including Delhi, Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh and Tamil Nadu, that opened their doors amid concerns that students had not been vaccinated and neither had all the staff. Schools and colleges in at least six more states are reopening in a gradual manner with health measures in place throughout September.

'Tomatoes For Neela': Padma Lakshmi cooks up a children's book with a message

Neela is a young girl who loves cooking with her mom. Saturday is her favourite day of the week. That's the day they go to the green market. So begins Padma Lakshmi's charming entry into the world of children's book, 'Tomatoes For Neela', which mixes the author's memories of family cooking with practical food advice, a nod to farmworkers.

The book's idea was triggered when Lakshmi's real-life daughter, Krishna, came home several years ago, craving a pomegranate. It was summer and her mother explained that pomegranates grow in the fall. Now, was the season for tomatoes

India's economic activity picking up pace, further upside to growth likely: Moody's

Moody's Investors Service has said that the economic activity in India is picking up with the gradual easing of Covid restrictions and there could be further upside to growth, as economies around the world gradually reopen. Vaccination, the extent of serious infections and mobility restrictions remain the key determinants for recovery cycle, it said.

In its August update to 'Global Macro Outlook 2021-22', Moody's retained India's growth forecast for the 2021 calendar year at 9.6 per cent and 7 per cent for 2022

A new island that may be world's northernmost

A team of Arctic researchers from Denmark say they discovered it off the coast of Greenland by accident.

Till now Oodaaq, another island 700 kilometres south of the North Pole, was known to be the northernmost

- The new tiny island is 780 metres further north of Oodaaq. It measures about 30 by 60 metres and rises about three to four metres above the sea level. The researchers have proposed naming it 'Qoqertaq Avannarleg', which means "the northernmost island" in Greenlandic
- The island consists primarily of small mounds of silt and gravel. It may be the result of a major storm which, with the help of the sea, gradually pushed material from the seabed together until an island formed
- It is expected to disappear in few years. In fact, nobody knows how long it would remain. In principle, it could disappear as soon as a powerful new storm hits

AFRICAN RIVERS ARE TURNING BLUE!

Rivers are blue but some rivers in Africa have recently turned into deeper hues of blue. Is this a trick of nature or something else? Let's find out...

HOW CAN BRANDS BE MORE ECO-FRIENDLY?

Brands can and do make environmentally sustainable clothing, and consumer pressure was key to encouraging more, said Katrina Charles, an expert on water security and quality at the University of Oxford who has worked with governments in Africa and Asia.

(INPUTS FROM REUTERS)

Many popular fashion labels have been in the past accused of polluting the environment and though many of them claim to have adapted eco-friendly practices, rivers in Africa are dying because of the constant dumping of fashion waste. According to a report published in the 'Independent', global fast fashion brands are helping drive pollution that has dyed African rivers blue or turned their waters as alkaline as bleach.

A report by Water Witness International's (WWI) featured the polluted rivers in Lesotho in southern Africa and Tanzania to highlight the risks posed by pollution caused by fashion brands, which are working extensively in Africa, thanks to the attractive tax incentives and cheap labour available. Global brands could force better practices, but so far their presence in Africa has done little to stem rife pollution, water hoarding by contracting factories or even ensure adequate water and sanitation for factory staff, Nick Hepworth, author of the report, said.

clothes from African nations, some of them being Zara, ASOS and H&M, but didn't tie the pollution to any particular company's supply chain. TNN

Fashion should be sustainable; it should not turn our precious water bodies into toxic wastelands!

THE BIG NEWS

"The flipside is that (fast fashion) could be a force for change," he cited in the report, but brands and investors needed to take the lead. In Lesotho, researchers found a river visibly polluted with blue dye for denim jeans. Samples taken from Tanzania's Msimbazi river in Dar es Salaam meanwhile tested a pH of 12 – the same as bleach – near a textiles factory, the report said, adding local communities use the Msimbazi for washing, irrigation and more. The report identified as many as 50 popular fashion labels, which are sourcing their

Rajma Chaat Recipe

Food of salads and healthy snacks? Then this Rajma Chaat recipe is perfect for you. It basically becomes a no-cook recipe if you boil rajma beforehand. Just mix some chopped veggies together with boiled rajma, add seasonings and your Rajma Chaat is ready. You can serve this salad along with your meals, or have it for a light dinner, or even have it as a snack whenever you feel like eating something tasty yet healthy. We have added some basic veggies here, however, you can add vegetables as per your taste. You can mix some fat-free mayonnaise in the salad to make it creamier.

INGREDIENTS:

- > 1 cup chopped red kidney beans
- > 1 capsicum (green pepper)
- > 1/4 cup boiled corn
- > 1/4 tablespoon powdered black pepper
- > 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
- > 2 tablespoon chopped coriander leaves
- > 1 medium onion
- > 1 carrot
- > Salt as required
- > 1/4 tablespoon chaat masala
- > 1 green chilli

HOW TO MAKE THIS DELICIOUS CHAAT

Step 1: Chop the veggies
Chop all the veggies like onion, capsicum, carrot, green chillies into small pieces and collect them in a bowl. Add salt, black pepper powder, chaat masala and lemon juice. Mix well.

Step 2: Add rajma and corn
Add boiled rajma and corn to the bowl and give a nice toss to mix everything.

Step 3: Ready to be served
Garnish the salad with chopped coriander leaves and serve.

KNOWLEDGE BANK (HISTORY)

BATTLE OF SHANGHAI: This battle was the first of the 22 major wars fought between the National Revolutionary Army of the Republic of China and the Imperial Japanese Army of the Empire of Japan at the beginning of the Second Sino-Japanese War. It was one of the largest and bloodiest battles of the entire war. Japanese invasion of Manchuria led to the armed conflict between China and Japan. The battle began on August 13, 1937 and ended in November 1937.

Meghan Markle's wedding gown is the most searched wedding dress!

ALL ABOUT MARKLE'S GOWN

For her 2018 wedding, Markle opted for a silk Givenchy wedding gown, which featured an open bateau neckline and cinched waist. The gown was custom-made from double-bonded silk cady and featured an under-skirt designed in triple silk organza by Clare Waight Keller. The beautiful gown also had a five-metre-long white silk veil with floral detailing. Earlier in 2019, Meghan's Givenchy wedding dress was also displayed at Edinburgh's Scottish castle. The dress had been put on display for the first time as a part of a special exhibition titled 'A Royal Wedding: The Duke and Duchess of Sussex'.

Kate Middleton, Duchess of Cambridge, on the other hand, had picked up a long-sleeved lace gown by designer Alexander McQueen for her 2011 wedding to Prince Williams. The lovely white gown featured a scalloped neckline and a nine-foot long train. The gown's body consisted of ivory satin and was inspired by the Victorian tradition of corsetry. TNN

> A poll conducted by Find Me A Gift (UK's leading provider of gifts) has found that Meghan Markle's wedding gown was the most searched for bridal gown of the decade. The average monthly searches of Meghan's wedding gown were 21,900 in the UK alone, whereas Kate Middleton's monthly gown searches were 21,500

> Markle's bridal veil (16-feet long) was embroidered with the national flowers of each of the 53 commonwealth countries

ETIQUETTE GUIDE

Tips for smooth dining experience

From celebrating birthdays and throwing parties to spending time with your family, a single restaurant can build thousands of memories. When it comes to dining, there are certain subtle mistakes that are overlooked on a regular basis. These mistakes may make you look less polished and disorganised. Know the dos and don'ts of dining – especially in the Covid era

Not making a reservation

Most restaurants have a reservation system. The system is kept so that the customer organisation is done in a better and time-efficient manner. If you are planning to dine with your family or friends, it is always better to make a reservation in order to prevent last-minute chaos. Doing so will ensure that everything is planned well in advance (more so because now with restaurants having 50 per cent seating, the waiting time has increased) and as a host, it's important to take steps for avoiding chaos.

Not taking precautions

If you are planning to dine out during these times, then Covid-19 precautions must be taken. Make sure you sanitise your hands properly before touching the food. Wipe the plates and spoons properly with a tissue to ensure they are clean. Always choose a table which is away from the crowd and avoid going to restaurants with low ceilings and also the overcrowded ones.

Ordering food with 2-3 waiters at the same time

Giving the food order to different waiters can not only lead to confusion but might also lead to duplication of food. You must only give the instructions to the waiter appointed for your table to ensure there is no miscommunication from your end. This will also help in leaving the tip for only the waiter assigned for your particular table.

Not ordering everything at once

Try to order everything at once and ask the waiter to bring the food as per your choice. This will cut short the waiting time between dishes, which might happen if you give orders only after completing the first dish. You can give the order of the starters, main course, dessert at once and ask the waiter to bring the food in one after another. This process may take additional five minutes but will ensure hassle free dining.

Signalling that you're done with your meal when you aren't

You must always let everyone finish the meal before signalling the waiter to bring the bill. Once done, you can put both fork and knife in the middle of your plate, as this means that you are done with your meal. TNN

PUTTING FORK AND KNIFE ON THE TABLE IS MANNER FAUX PAS!

Once you are done with your meal, you must always leave your fork and knife on the plate. If you liked the meal, then the fork and knife should be placed horizontally, with the head of the cutlery towards the right. If you do not like the meal, then you should keep the fork and knife by intertwining the knife in the fork's bristles!

AIS HOLDS INVESTITURE CEREMONY & INDEPENDENCE DAY

Like every year Asian International School celebrated Independence Day and Investiture Ceremony together on August 15. This year the coronation week comprised a couple of significant events. One was the student council election which was held on August 10 while the other was the investiture ceremony which was held on August 15. Thus, Independence Day was celebrated in the cognition and attire of the investiture ceremony.

The newly-elected students council members satiated and impressed the judges as well as the audience with their oratory skills. Besides counting down upon their vocabulary, cognitive skills, ethical dimensions and moral values, the speakers were chosen on the basis of their leadership skills. The event took off with the following protocol, finally finding life on the morn of Independence Day. The flag hoisting ceremony took place in the school premises. The principal, Vijaylaxmi Kumar, took the platform to encourage the students to 'Travel till the end of the tunnel as they have nothing to lose when they are trying.' She further elaborated the thought and said, "The beauty of being a citizen of a progressive nation like India is that, while we experiment and achieve success with every passing day, we have nothing to lose." She inspired the newly-elected student council members by saying that, "Self-encouragement is the key that helps us walk the road less taken and that the gap between desire and deserved can only be waived off with devotion and dedication." Headmistress Simran Sanghera also motivated the young minds with her brief speech about the valour of our Indian jawans who risk their lives while safeguarding the frontiers of our motherland.

This was followed by a virtual oath taking ceremony. The new committee members included Mayukh Das as the head boy, Upashana Adhikari, the head girl, Agnik Ghoshal was declared the deputy head boy while Titir Biswas was proclaimed to be the deputy head girl. The cultural and the editorial committee had gathered it's members for the newly-built family. House captains and vice-captains of the four houses, were bagged with articulation along with the sports captain and the sports vice captains, namely, Megha Sahoo, and Arthit De Sarkar. The ceremony was compered by Rohit Awon and Jisha Chakraborty went on with mediating the virtual show with the celebration on the premises. The day witnessed brilliant dance performances where the students sketched the image of One India through their dance. The AISians also gave their heartfelt tribute to all the seven medal winners of the Tokyo 2020 Olympic Games. The ceremony took off well and filled the day with an aura of patriotism.

Ever made a hydraulic crane?

I have been trying my hand in many things since lockdown. I painted, made craft and being a keyboard player, I tried composing music. Yet, I wanted to do something more engaging. And then, I stumbled across STEAM toys. They helped me understand STEAM concepts through hands-on experience.

I worked on a variety of machines, it made me more curious and taught me patience. I will tell you about my hydraulic crane. I bought wooden pieces that come in a box online.

First, I made the base of the hydraulic crane which rotates the crane and lifts the grabber. Then I made the grabber (something like the hook of the crane), that holds things such as a box or a cup. I made a box out of thermocol to test it. Then I made the hydraulic crane operator which controls its lifting, grabbing, and turning movements. At last, I fixed the syringes which hold the water and placed their pipes into a cup of water. When I pulled the syringe holder, the water filled the syringe and the crane began to function. Why not try making it?

BOOK: THE DIARY OF A YOUNG GIRL BY ANNE FRANK

Anne Frank could not have known that her musings would become primary source of information about life during the Holocaust and the world situation. This diary is one of the most moving stories that anyone, anywhere has managed to tell about World War II.

The most interesting part of this book is that we can relate her life and experience with us as teenagers experience. At the age of 13 getting to know the world, her little worries and sorrows, distance from parents, feeling lonely, being happy with small things, all these are the things we experience even now. But her problems gave us an insight into the lives of thousands of people during the holocaust. Living in constant fear that they might get discovered any moment, spending two whole years in a small hidden room with barely any food to eat, all gives a vivid description of her troubles and take us back to those horrible times.

But there is a wrong notion that this book is filled only with sorrow. Anne was a remarkably intelligent and thoughtful writer and her diary is as entertaining as a significant historical document. We get to learn from this little girl about how to be brave and happy in times of great distress, how to never lose hope and how to support our family. Anne found living in a hideout an adventure and wrote about it excitedly in her diary. She mentioned in her diary that she aspired to be a writer some day.

"I've reached a point where I hardly care whether I live or die. The world will keep on turning without me and I can't do anything to change events anyway. I'll just let matters take their course and concentrate on studying and hope that everything will be alright in the end" - in this quote we get to know how desperate and depressed Anne was being locked up in the "Secret Annex". It also shows us how courageous, strong and intelligent individual she was and also never lost the ray of hope.

This book is a must read book for people of all ages. This book tells the story of a thirteen year innocent girl forced into hiding. It is really intriguing while incorporating a number of life lessons. She is an inspiration to many people around the world. This diary puts us into the shoes of Anne Frank that take us through her everyday life. It is a book to be cherished.

Monsoon Activity at Ruby Park Public School

The rainy season also known as the monsoon begins in the middle of June and continues till early September. It comes after the end of the scorching summer season, bringing relief to human beings, animals, birds, plants and trees. After the hot season, everybody welcomes the cool shower. Children enjoy the season to the utmost - they float paper boats and play in the puddles. The students of Ruby Park Public School enjoyed the monsoon season by doing various craft work under the guidance of the teachers and parents in the online classes. The students of nursery stuck cotton balls making them look like clouds and hung water droplets using wool to make them look like raindrops. The students of lower kg used cotton to stimulate clouds and used different colours to make a rainbow.

The students of upper kg also made clouds using cotton and used ear buds to give the effect of water droplets falling from the sky.

The students of class I made an umbrella with paper using the fan folding method and drew the clouds and rain drops.

La Maternelle holds fancy dress and collage making contests

August is a month of celebrations and events. We had a virtual fancy dress competition on August 14.

Children of the primary section participated with great enthusiasm and were dressed so beautifully. Some children were dressed as Gandhiji, some as freedom fighters, some as Krishna, Kali and some even as Superman. Some children dressed as rainbows, turtles and trees also. The winners were awarded with wonderful story books. There was also a collage competition held for High School and the topic was Tokyo Olympics. It was a very current topic and children made beautiful collages with India winning so many medals and laurels for the nation. The best ones were rewarded prizes. Its wonderful to see such creativity even though it is all on a virtual mode.

INDIA LOOK TO REGAIN MOMENTUM

Spotlight on Ashwin in 4th test at venue that favours spinners

Vice-captain Ajinkya Rahane's wretched form and senior off-spinner Ravichandran Ashwin's probable inclusion will have the most significant impact on the Indian team's efforts to move on from its Leeds debacle when it takes on a stronger England in the fourth Test at the Oval starting Wednesday. The high of an inspirational victory at the Lord's was followed by back-to-back batting debacles at Headingley and the penultimate game at Oval would certainly have an impact on both sides as the series heads towards its business end. Skipper Virat Kohli had said that a victory at Lord's didn't guarantee a win in the next Test and a defeat at Headingley doesn't mean that an encore would happen at the Oval with the series locked at 1-1.

Middle order woes

Not the one to believe that outside noise (fans and experts) should be given much credence, the Indian captain, in his heart of hearts, knows that all is not well with his batting unit and the biggest problem is the performance of its three middle-order stalwarts – the skipper himself, Cheteshwar Pujara and his deputy Rahane.

Pujara might have redeemed himself with a knock of 91 which was high on "intent quotient" but the same can't be said about Rahane, whose form is shaky despite a crucial 61 in the second innings at the Lord's.

Inconsistency worrisome

In all likelihood, Rahane would get another chance but over the past two years, his inconsistency has hurt this team badly. What many people have found baffling is that even a hundred at Melbourne or a fifty at the Lord's hasn't inspired confidence and he has never looked like getting back into some kind of form.

A total of 95 runs in five innings at an average of 19 is not an indicator of Rahane's qualities but a spunky strokeplayer like Suryakumar Yadav or an orthodox batter like Hanuma Vihari might bring in a bit of freshness in the middle-order. If Rahane is dropped at all, then Vihari has a better chance of coming in as he also bowls off-spin.

England never allows any team to win easily in England. India also does not lose at home. That is why it is said that if you win away tours, it is a big achievement. Last 10 years, England has a bowler who utilises the conditions better than anyone else and that bowler is James Anderson. Any Indian batter will tell you how tough it is to face Anderson. Former India pacer ASHISH NEHRA

However, skipper Kohli has shown that he can be dogmatic even if suggestions to contrary come from some of India's biggest cricketing legends including Sunil Gavaskar, who feels that playing an extra batsman might help them. An exhibit of it is his decision of not compromising with the five-bowler theory despite batting failures save for openers Rohit Sharma and KL Rahul (who had a poor third Test).

Ravindra Jadeja in this series, with two wickets from three games, has played primarily as a No.7 batsman whose willow-wielding skills are considered to be far better than Ashwin, who is perhaps the world's best spinner at the moment.

The Oval track has traditionally helped spinners and therefore Ashwin, who had a six-wicket haul in a county game for Surrey (vs Somerset) might just bring in his 400 plus wicket experience to trouble the English batters who have been wary of him in the past. But Kohli, whose fascination for four pacers is well documented, might want to replace an off-colour Ishant Sharma with Shardul Thakur, who is more of an all-rounder and it remains to be seen if Ashwin comes in place of Jadeja, who hasn't been penetrative enough.

Root the man to watch

If their middle-order is a cause of concern, the other aspect that's bound to give them sleepless nights is the form of rival skipper Joe Root, who has already tallied over 500 runs in just three games with a hat-trick of hundreds. If Ashwin gets a look-in, Root versus Ashwin will be a contest that a lot of cricket fans will be looking forward to.

For England, Dawid Malan, in his comeback match, was in good touch. Add to it, Mark Wood's blistering pace and Chris Woakes' incisive swing bowling and it is enough to ensure a bit of workload management for James Anderson. PH

DJOKOVIC TOPS TEEN RUNE AT US OPEN

Wins comfortably as he bids for a calendar Slam

If the last-name chorus of "Ruuu-uune!" in support of his relatively unknown teenage opponent at the US Open bothered Novak Djokovic, he never let anyone know. Nor was there any visible evidence that Djokovic was shaken by the shaky patches he went through while dropping a set Tuesday night as he began his historic bid to complete the first calendar-year Grand Slam in men's tennis since 1969 and collect a record-breaking 21st major singles championship.

Just needed a win

Djokovic was not perfect - "It wasn't the best of my performances," he acknowledged - but he didn't need to be. All he needed to do was win, and he did, just as he's done every time he's played a Grand Slam match this season, whether on the hard courts of the Australian Open, the red clay of the French Open, the grass of Wimbledon or, now, the first of what he hopes will be seven times on the hard courts of Flushing Meadows.

Quickly regaining control after a second-set blip, then wearing down his cramping foe, Djokovic beat Danish qualifier Holger Vitus Nodskov Rune 6-1 6-7 (5) 6-2 6-1 to reach the second round. "I mean, obviously you always wish to have crowd behind you, but it's not always possible. That's all I can say. I mean, I don't know; I've been focusing on myself and what I need to do," said Djokovic, who next faces Tallon Griekspoor, a 25-year-old from Netherlands ranked 121st who got into the field when Roger Federer pulled out. "I guess I have to just see how it feels on the court and try to keep it together. That's all I can do."

Stark differences

So many differences between the two players in Arthur Ashe Stadium on a muggy Tuesday evening.

Djokovic is 34; Rune 18. Djokovic is ranked No. 1; Rune 145th. Djokovic owns 20 Grand Slam titles, the men's mark he currently shares with rivals Federer and Rafael Nadal; Rune, the junior champion at Roland Garros two years ago, had never played a match in the main draw of a major tournament until Tuesday.

Djokovic's on-court career earnings entering this week were more than USD 150 million; Rune's were less than USD 150,000.

His descriptions of this match sounded as if they arrived from someone very much his age: All in all, he found it to be a "crazy experience" and "a dream come true," and the crowd support was "unbelievable" and a "pretty sick feeling."

Rune did come in on a 13-match winning streak, built on the lower-level ATP Challenger Tour and the qualifying rounds in New York. The fans, back at the U.S. Open after all spectators were banned last year because of the pandemic, gave him some serious backing, responding to his pumped fists and uppercuts and pleas for more noise when he was playing at his best in the second set.

In other action, Germany's Alexander Zverev won this 12 match with victory over Sam Querrey. Switzerland's Belinda Bencic beat Arantxa Rus 6-4 6-4. AP

ATLETICO WELCOME BACK GRIEZMANN; REAL SIGN CAMAVINGA

France forward Antoine Griezmann has made a shock return to Atletico Madrid just two years after leaving to join Barcelona, on the final day of a hectic European transfer window.

Real Madrid also bagged a French international star as Eduardo Camavinga arrived from Rennes, but their attempts to sign Kylian Mbappe from Paris Saint-Germain failed.

World Cup-winning 30-year-old Griezmann, who scored 133 goals in his first spell with Atletico, has rejoined on a one-year loan deal with an option to extend by another year and an obligation to buy, the club said. "Welcome back, Griezmann!" Atletico wrote on its website.

Barcelona have been struggling financially and had to allow six-time Ballon d'Or winner Lionel Messi to leave for PSG last month.

Antoine Griezmann

Midfield prodigy Camavinga, just 18, penned a six-year deal at Real, reportedly at 31 million euros ($36.6m) plus 9 million euros in bonuses. It is a considerable sum for the Angolan-born player, who was in the final year of his contract at Rennes. AGENCIES
